CALIFORNIA TRAINS.
A Saving in Time Between Chicago and Los Angeles.
(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Today important changes were made in the schedules of through California trains via the Chicago, Union Pacific and Northwestern lines, which will afford the shortest time ever made by a regular train between Chicago and San Francisco.
The Overland limited, Chicago to San Francisco, and Pullman cars, Chicago to Los Angeles, will leave Chicago via the Northwestern line at 6 o'clock each evening, reaching San Francisco at 8:45 o'clock in the evening of the third day, thereby saving one night en route. The new schedule between Chicago and Los Angeles will effect a saving of nearly twenty-four hours over the present time between Chicago and points in Southern California.
The Pacific express will leave Chicago at 10:45 p.m. daily for Omaha, Denver and Portland, and a tourist sleeper for San Francisco, arriving there at 9:45 p.m., and connecting at Sacramento for Los Angeles. This will enable patrons of tourist cars to make the journey from Chicago to California in three and a half days.

BURNED THE QUEEN.
THE MASSACRE OF THE KOREAN KING'S CONSORT.
Unable to Tell the Monarch from Her Female Attendants the Assassins Knife All Four and Set the Bodies on Fire—An American Nearly Killed.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
MILWAUKEE (Wis.), Nov. 17.—Rudolph Wundschneider, now visiting in Korea, writes to the Milwaukee Sentinel from Seoul, giving an account of the murder of the Queen early in October. He says that the Japanese were instigators of the outrage. The latter said that a body of Japanese soldiers had been ordered to the palace and they were backed by Japanese troops. When they had gained entrance to the Queen's apartments they found four women there, and, being unable to recognize the Queen, who had disguised herself, they killed all four women. The bodies, after having been slashed and stabbed, were tied up in blankets, carried to the courtyard, saturated with oil and burned. It is reported the Queen was cremated alive, not having been dispatched during the slaughter.

The Japanese government has started an inquiry and many arrests have been made. An American general who has been acting as vice-minister of war for Korea, said to have been an eye-witness of the outrage. He was in command of the guard that made heroic resistance to the assault of the Japanese in the palace. He came near being killed, several bullets passing close to him. Had he lost his life, the Japanese government, the writer says, might have found itself in serious complications with the United States.

ISLAND SUGAR.

Hawaiian Planters and the Trust.
A Renewal of the Contract Being Sought.

Unless the Former Obtain What They Desire They Will Organize.

Messrs. J. B. Atherton, H. P. Baldwin and C. M. Cook Now at San Francisco Dicker with Claus Spreckels.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—(Special Dispatch.) Three of the most prominent sugar-planters and sugar-merchants in the Hawaiian Islands are here on a mission to secure a renewal of their contract with the Sugar Trust. According to the terms of this contract, which has been in vogue for several years, the Sugar Trust has been buying one-half of the entire sugar crop of the Hawaiian Islands at the price prevailing in New York, with certain commissions added. This contract is now about to expire, and negotiations have been entered into with Claus Spreckels, as representative of the Sugar Trust on this Coast, for a renewal of the same on terms more favorable to the planters. It is understood that unless the planters get what they ask for, they will form a syndicate and handle the Hawaiian sugar crop themselves.

The three gentlemen who have come to open negotiations with the Sugar Trust are: J. B. Atherton, H. P. Baldwin and C. M. Cook. Atherton is a member of the big Honolulu firm of Castle & Cook. Baldwin runs the biggest sugar plantation in the world, and Cook is a prominent millionaire of Honolulu and a member of the firm of Lewers & Cook. They control over half the entire sugar output of the Hawaiian Islands, the other half being handled by W. G. Irwin & Co., Spreckels's representatives in the islands.

Their mission is of great magnitude and importance. One-half of the entire sugar output of the Hawaiian Islands means a good large proportion of the total amount of sugar refined and consumed in the United States, and with this amount of sugar at their disposal, the delegation of Honolulu merchants in this city could play havoc with market prices by diverting their portion of the crop to other channels. They are anxious to give the sugar to the trust, and want a renewal of their contract for five years, but up to the present they have failed to consummate any agreement with Spreckels, owing to inability to agree on the important item of commissions.

It is thought the matter will be settled one way or the other this week. The planters have had to have great pains to keep the nature of their mission secret, and on this account have given up their apartments at the Occidental, where they stayed for a few days after their arrival, and have secluded themselves in Oakland, business and the mob did not talk business with Claus Spreckels.

SENATOR THURSTON.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
OMAHA (Nebr.), Nov. 17.—Local railroads were given a new insight into the future of the Union Pacific reorganization of the Union Pacific today. The matter comes in the form of an authorized statement from Senator Thurston through Charles J. Hayes, Senator Thurston left this evening for Washington. In an interview the Senator said:

"I have a general solicitor of the Union Pacific has been forwarded to Judge Dillon in New York and will not be presented to the receivers of the road for about a week. I resigned, not because of any real or apparent impropriety in acting as attorney for the road, but simply because the duties of that position require the whole time and attention of the man who holds it.

"I have an idea that the prospect is for successful reorganization of the Pacific roads under the plan proposed by the present committee. I have an idea that the government will get the government matter and reorganization of the Pacific properties, somewhat in line with the recommendations of the present committee. I think it will be a great thing for the country at large to have the Union Pacific line, which has the choice of whether its traffic shall go via the Union Pacific or the Southern line. I think it was one of the purposes of the government in chartering the roads that they should continue as one line, operated together, and I think reasonable legislation can be enacted to secure the result.

"I have prepared a bill which I shall introduce in the Senate in the next session. The general plan of which is this: Take the statement of the government's claim against the main line from the Missouri River to San Jose, and let it stand July 1, 1896 and let the claim as a whole for sale to the highest bidder, who will give 40 or 50 per cent. of the principal or interest; make that the minimum, and let the government get nearly or quite half of its entire claim, sell that claim to one purchaser, giving it right entry, possession and foreclosure. Give to one court of the United States, presumably of Nebraska, jurisdiction over a suit to foreclose on the entire property, and on the fore-closure sale provide that the property should be sold as a whole, a purchasing committee to be created as a corporation and as such to possess all the corporate powers that Congress conferred upon the several lines.

"That, in brief, is my ideal solution of the Pacific roads controversy, and reorganization of the roads as a through line within thirty days to buy the claim for 50 per cent. of the entire amount. The sale would excite spirited bidding and the amount realized might be greater than the sum of the government's claim. The government would certainly get all that it could hope to receive from any method of enforcing its claim.

"I think Republicans should try to organize the Senate without combining with the Populists. When the two Utah Senators come January, Republicans will be able to organize the Senate, if not before. I think the Republican Congress ought to pass a general tariff act in harmony with the idea of American protection and on which we would be willing to go to the aid of the Presidential campaign. I do not believe in any temporary expedient to increase the revenue."

FREDERICK (Md.), Nov. 17.—James Goings, who assaulted Miss Lillie Jones at the home of Hamilton Geisbert, near this place, last night, was taken from the jail by a mob of 500 men this morning and hanged to a tree in a field on the Jefferson turnpike.

A report reached this city about midnight that the woman had died from the cuts and beating inflicted by the negro, and this infuriated the men who had been gathered in the streets and discussing the outrage.

A mob was quickly gotten together and the crowd rushed to the jail. The men who had been gathered in the streets and discussing the outrage.

INSANE GRIEF.

A Frantic Crowd Throgs the River Bank.

CLEVELAND (O.), Nov. 17.—The people of this city stood appalled today when they realized the full horror of the terrible accident which occurred last evening on the big Cleveland viaduct. It was the worst accident that has ever happened in this city, and the story of how the motor car, loaded with men, women and children, was hurled through the air and crashed down a hundred feet into the river, was told over and over again. Thousands of people remained by the river bank all last night and thousands more were there early this morning. Great crowds are still standing on the bridge above the wrecked car and about the place where the wreck is buried in the river, eagerly discussing every detail of the accident.

The first reports of the disaster were verified in every particular, with the possible exception of the number of victims, which is somewhat smaller than was first supposed. The work of rescuing the bodies of the victims has gone on steadily since 9 o'clock last evening, and it is now believed nothing more can be done until the last bit of wreckage of the car has been removed from the river.

Since about the river late last night, while the work of rescue was being prosecuted, were pathetic in the extreme. The thousands of people who had assembled waited with bated breath for the discovery of the bodies. It was a sad crowd, and out of respect for the unfortunate dead, but very little noise was made. Occasionally a wild scream of some frantic woman who believed some one dear to her was among the unfortunate ones would echo over the date, only to be taken up at a distance by some other woman whose heart was breaking over her loss. It was almost impossible to get to the river. Patrol wagons dashed by and that, their bells clanging, adding to the din and confusion. Ambulances dashed up to the body and looked for the remains of other unfortunates. It was almost impossible to work with any system. The crowd pushed its way as near the scene as possible and the large police force to maintain order were still missing, and there seems to be no doubt that their bodies will be taken from the bottom of the river when the heavy iron trucks of the wrecked motor are raised. One of the bodies found today was that of little Gertrude Hoffman, aged 4, who was going home from the store where her father was employed, with her mother and brother. The child's body was found lying against the bank of the river some distance below the scene of the accident, and was identified soon after being taken out. The other body found today was that of Louis Hulet, a mail-carrier. His head was split open from the forehead to the back of the head and there is no doubt he was killed before the car settled into the water.

One of the unidentified bodies was that of Miss Martha Palmer, a German domestic employed at a house on Bell avenue. Another body identified was that of Mrs. Martha Palmer, dressmaker, of No. 165 Kentworth avenue. Augusta Sarinski's body was picked out of the unidentified at the morgue by her employer. The list of the killed and missing is as follows:

The killed are:
HARRY W. FOSTER, No. 51 Mentor avenue.
C. LEPPINE, No. 66 Jennings avenue.
HARVEY HOFFMAN, No. 1053 Pearl street.
MRS. MARTHA PALMER, No. 165 Kentworth avenue.
AUGUSTA SARINSKI, No. 207 Central avenue.
GERTIE HOFFMAN, No. 1053 Pearl street.
LOUIS F. HULET, No. 38 Bevier street.

The missing are:
MISS MARTHA SAUERHEIMER, No. 154 Merchant street.
LOONEY, No. 173 Clinton street.
MATTHEW CALLAHAN, Hamilton street.

The finding of the body of little Gertrude Hoffman filled the cup of sorrow for A. W. Hoffman. She was the last member of his family. His wife and son, Harvey, the latter 7 years of age, were taken from the river last night. When Hoffman realized what had happened to him he became bereft of his reason. Rushing to the river he plunged in and tried to drown himself, but was rescued by friends, who took him away and tried to comfort him.

A full identification of the body of Curt Leppine by his stepfather, Prof. C. E. Clements, today, disclosed a romance. Leppine's mother was an English girl. Several years ago she went to Berlin to study music, and there met and married a German army officer named Leppine. Four children were born to her, when she was in Berlin. Last summer she met Prof. Charles Clements, and the two became engaged. Prof. Clements was a teacher in a musical school in Berlin, and he had been offered a position in this city. He came to Cleveland and Mrs. Leppine followed him here, arriving only last month with her children. They were married the afternoon. Curt who was 14 years old, was her eldest son.

August Rogers, the motorman, is still detained at the central station, although he is held only as a witness before the coroner. He talked about the accident today.

"It was my second trip. Just after leaving the Market House I took it into the car and, from what I can remember, there were about twenty or twenty-five passengers. They were mostly women, and I think I saw a man. When the motor reached the switch at the approach of the draw in the viaduct, I shut off my current and then spoiled the brake. The car went down the draw and the conductor ran ahead and threw the switch. He motioned me ahead with a wave of his arm. I put my lever at the first position and the car started. I was startled by the gates just in front of me and I heard some one yell 'jump.' I don't know what happened after that. The current or not, for I realized the danger and leaped from the vestibule. As I leaped, I thought I would plunge headlong into the river, but as I fell, the car struck the gate I fell on it and caught the iron frame and saved myself. The car went down with a great crash, but I never heard a murmur or anything that resembled a scream."

His wife, who stood by his side, consoled him by saying: "Certainly it was no.," he replied, "but think of it. Oh, my God, just think of it."

Rogers then buried his head deeper in his hands and cried: "My God, it's too bad, too bad."

When he had recovered himself somewhat, Rogers said: "I have never been freed from the iron gate I scarcely knew what to do. I was dazed. I finally concluded to run back to the Market House and tell the police. I did so, and then ran back to the scene of the accident. I hurried down the embankment and began to pull the bodies out from the wreck. I worked for fully an hour, maybe an hour and a half, then I grew sick and went home."

"When you first saw the gates of the draw, were your lights burning and did you have current?"

"I did have current and my lights were burning. That is the reason why I thought of no danger. When the draw is open the lights usually go out, but it was not the case at the time of the accident, as I can swear. As I told you, I was surprised when I saw the gates and knew I had both lights and current, which had never been the case when the gates have been closed as the swinging of the bridge cuts off the current and of course where this is done, the lights go out."

"How do you account for the strange fact?"

"I cannot account for it, but I swear that I never had and have never had an accident of any kind until this one, and I believe this will kill me."

The diver at work on the wreck today brought up a handful of hair from the head of a woman whose body was wedged under the motor trucks. The body is believed to be that of Miss Sauerheimer of No. 154 Merchant avenue, who was erroneously reported among the list of identified bodies last night. Miss Sauerheimer went to the Market House and saw her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Sauerheimer, and the two were returning home together on the car that went into the river. Mrs. Sauerheimer's body has been recovered. The friends and relatives of Miss Sauerheimer have walked up and down the dock under the bridge all day wringing their hands and crying. The girl's father became so desperate that it was found necessary to take

The finding of the body of little Gertrude Hoffman filled the cup of sorrow for A. W. Hoffman. She was the last member of his family. His wife and son, Harvey, the latter 7 years of age, were taken from the river last night. When Hoffman realized what had happened to him he became bereft of his reason. Rushing to the river he plunged in and tried to drown himself, but was rescued by friends, who took him away and tried to comfort him.

A full identification of the body of Curt Leppine by his stepfather, Prof. C. E. Clements, today, disclosed a romance. Leppine's mother was an English girl. Several years ago she went to Berlin to study music, and there met and married a German army officer named Leppine. Four children were born to her, when she was in Berlin. Last summer she met Prof. Charles Clements, and the two became engaged. Prof. Clements was a teacher in a musical school in Berlin, and he had been offered a position in this city. He came to Cleveland and Mrs. Leppine followed him here, arriving only last month with her children. They were married the afternoon. Curt who was 14 years old, was her eldest son.

August Rogers, the motorman, is still detained at the central station, although he is held only as a witness before the coroner. He talked about the accident today.

"It was my second trip. Just after leaving the Market House I took it into the car and, from what I can remember, there were about twenty or twenty-five passengers. They were mostly women, and I think I saw a man. When the motor reached the switch at the approach of the draw in the viaduct, I shut off my current and then spoiled the brake. The car went down the draw and the conductor ran ahead and threw the switch. He motioned me ahead with a wave of his arm. I put my lever at the first position and the car started. I was startled by the gates just in front of me and I heard some one yell 'jump.' I don't know what happened after that. The current or not, for I realized the danger and leaped from the vestibule. As I leaped, I thought I would plunge headlong into the river, but as I fell, the car struck the gate I fell on it and caught the iron frame and saved myself. The car went down with a great crash, but I never heard a murmur or anything that resembled a scream."

His wife, who stood by his side, consoled him by saying: "Certainly it was no.," he replied, "but think of it. Oh, my God, just think of it."

Rogers then buried his head deeper in his hands and cried: "My God, it's too bad, too bad."

When he had recovered himself somewhat, Rogers said: "I have never been freed from the iron gate I scarcely knew what to do. I was dazed. I finally concluded to run back to the Market House and tell the police. I did

Preparations are nearly complete for the entertainment of the visiting wheelmen this week. Tuesday evening the Citrus wheelmen will give a reception and smoker, to which have been invited all the local clubs and visiting wheelmen from all parts of Southern California. Should any club members in Los Angeles or visiting wheelmen from the country have been overlooked in sending out invitations, if they will send their names and addresses to the Invitation Committee, H. C. Smith, J. W. A. Off and George Seymour, invitation will be sent at once.

The arrangements of reception are in the hands of Dr. H. Bert Ellis, Henry T. Hazard, Dr. E. C. Manning,

J. W. A. Off, E. W. Kinsey, George Seymour, Joseph Fletcher, C. E. Patterson and M. A. Baker. Numerous sub-committees have been appointed to look after the details and they promise one of the most unique and interesting programmes ever given by the wheelmen in Los Angeles. The Crown City Cycle Club, Roanoke Road Club and East Side Club have accepted their invitations and will attend in body. The East Side Club is getting up a special uniform for the occasion.

Saturday evening (after the races) will be Wheelmen's Night at the Orpheum, at which time the prizes will be presented to the winners. The Roanoke Road Club have engaged a hall in the body of the house, the East Side the three front rows and the Citrus wheelmen the boxes and loges and will have as their guests the Eastern racing men and their managers. The Sunday following a tally-ho ride will be arranged for the visitors.

Other entertainments are under way but are not yet ready for publication. All wheelmen visiting Los Angeles the coming week will have a royal good time and will soon target the first National Circuit meet.

One mile novice, class A: First, gold medal, value $20; second, silver medal, value $15.

One mile post, class A: First, gold medal, value $25; second, silver medal, value $20; third, silver medal, value $15; fourth, silver medal, value $10.

urer, now has a chance to make a record for himself. Robert Grey, the new representative at large, is the best known member of the Ontario Wheelmen division.

At the cycling carnival Friday evening in Hazard's Pavilion, there will be a trial riding by Obenauer and other riders. The trial will be a contest for prizes in costumes. Ladies' bicycle drill is also promised.

A parade on bicycles is announced for Friday evening to advertise the carnival at the Pavilion. It will be led by the East Side Cycling Club. The line of march is from the crossing of Fifth and South Spring to the corner of Spring and back through Broadway and other streets to the Pavilion. It will start at 8 o'clock.

MONTHLY ROAD RACE.

The third monthly road race of the Roanoke Road Club was held yesterday afternoon on the club's square course in the Cahuenga Valley. This was the second of the five-mile handicaps for the month, which must be won by a single rider three times before the contest ends. Rodriguez won the first time yesterday, and therefore only needs two more victories to get the trophy. There were eighteen entries and ten starters. The two limit men, Rodriguez and Rodriguez, were the only ones who finished.

They are to weigh 133 pounds, three hours before they enter the ring. The contest is limited to fifteen rounds. There is no likelihood of the abandonment of the contest for bicycles. They have stood the test of time well enough to become a permanent part of the most popular makes of wheels.

The trial of the new pneumatic boxing-glove in Philadelphia was highly successful. A blow with it on the flat produces no sudden jar. It is said to be impossible to score a knockout with them.

"Kid" Madden, the erstwhile bantamweight pugilist, has fought his last battle. After his recent defeat by Jimmy Barry, Madden decided that he would retire from the ring and again enter legitimate channels.

An Eastern paper says: "Griffin will ride at the coming Pimlico meeting and then will go to California. He will take young Hewitt with him, August Belmont being anxious that his promising lightweight should get all the practice possible."

The breeding interests of the country have sustained a severe loss in the death of that magnificent sire, Ambassador. He was 20 years of age at the time of his death, had a record of 2:14, and was probably the handsomest son of his mighty sire, George Wilkes.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the League of American Wheelmen, at St. Louis, the report of the treasurer showed a balance of $5000 on hand, with all debts paid. It was deeply in debt, this is a splendid showing.

No more promising candidate for '96 honors has appeared on the circuit this year than Little Earl Keiser, the Dayton youth, who is riding in the yellow coat of the Standard. He has been the only competitor the little flyer cannot defeat, and in time even the obstacle from Buffalo may be overcome.

It is likely that Henry of Navarre will stay in America. He would have been shipped last week had Mr. Belmont been able to secure the services of a speaking acquaintance. He would have been shipped last week had Mr. Belmont been able to secure the services of a speaking acquaintance.

Eastern breeders are delighted that Col. John H. Thayer of Lancaster, Mass., has bought Baron Wilkes, undoubtedly one of the greatest blood-producing sires of the time. He got him cheap at $25,000. Col. Thayer paid $50,000 for Ralph Wilkes when a two-year-old, and had the misfortune to lose him by death three years later.

The double scull race between Buear and Haines and Gaudaur and Rogers for the championship of the world has been declared off. The owner of the lake at Austin, Tex., where the race was to be rowed, has objected to the exhibition on Sunday, and the result was that the race was immediately declared off.

Track gossip is rife that James R. Keene possesses this fall the most promising yearling yet shown either in the great number he owns or in any that have been shown. The youngster is a half brother to the once famous Tea Tray, and is said to have not only outworked anything of the young division in the past, but to be better in his present showing than any that has been seen this fall.

The young women of the Cambridge, Mass., High School have decided to organize a football eleven. They will get in condition to play a practice game on Thanksgiving day. That will be the first open-air practice game—a sort of dress rehearsal to prepare the team to meet strangers' eyes. On no occasion will the school permit a public view of the games. Admission will be by card only, and none other than close friends of the players will be allowed to enter.

There is considerable talk of a convention of trotting horse owners, breeders and drivers being held in San Francisco next month, to take action regarding the proposed change in the rules of the game. It is much to be done, and a more specific plan in regard to race meetings adopted. A number of the club members are formulating plans for this convention, which, if adopted, will contribute largely to the success of the light-horse industry on this Coast hereafter.

The Chicago Baseball Club is to lose its well-known outfielder, Wilmet, who has received an offer from the management of the Minneapolis Club of the Western League, and will accept. Wilmet will get a salary and a percentage. His home is in St. Paul. He will be replaced by a new player, who will be chosen by the club. Wilmet has considerable money, and has long been ambitious to become something more than a mere player, and hence the managerial bee has been buzzing in his bonnet at a lively rate.

"Phil" Casey of Brooklyn, champion handball player of the world, announced that he and ex-Alderman Dunne are willing to meet Patrick Quinn and William Carney of Chicago in a handball match for as much as the Chicago men care to place. Casey says he does not care to make the contest a championship event, as a big match is pending between the Brooklyn experts and the Irish players. The big international match is not likely to come off before late spring or early summer, and in the meantime the Brooklyn-Chicago match could be played.

According to C. E. Lawson, A's brother, who took a team of amateurs to England a few months ago, anyone taking a good team to Great Britain in a year or two, after they have mastered the art of curving the ball over there would make lots of money. He said that he received assistance that the Mission-street electric line would be extended immediately and would be in operation to the track by the opening day. The postponement will be an advantage to the horsemen that have lately arrived, giving them time to prepare their horses for participation in the opening events, and incidentally will afford the association a chance to give a better card, made up with horses new to most of our racegoers. Instead of those which have been seen for months past, Racing will continue at Bay District up to the date of opening of the new track.

Sporting Notes.

It is said that Titus and Cabanne will not do any racing this winter. Four years ago the 2:08 1/2 of Maud S. stood first in the list of trotting records. Today the rank of the daughter of Harold is but twenty-third.

Anson's contract with Hoyt & McKee in "A Runaway Coach" exempts him from the racing season, starting from March till October of each year.

In another year or two the pitcher will have to go back still further, judging by the strides he has been making the last two seasons, toward his former dominance.

Despite the thorough trouncing given England's great amateur athletes on this side of the ocean this year, those at home have kept hammering away at records with signal success. The most marvellous performer of the year on Britain's cinder-paths is perhaps W. J. Sturgis, a member of the Polytechnic Harriers and walking champion of England. Satisfied that he could accomplish the feat to cover eight miles within the hour, squaring heel and toe the London Athletic Club afforded him the opportunity at its fall games at Stamford Bridge recently by announcing a handicap. The result was that Sturgis not only made the performance, but covered 20 yards more before the time expired. The previous amateur record, covered 8 miles 302 yards in 1882.

The Times

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

The orange growers of Orange county are considering the matter of handling next year's crop of fruit. They seem to realize that it is necessary to hang together rather than to hang separately, so to speak, hence their early plans for operating next year.

The fortifying of San Diego harbor with big guns, as suggested by Gen. Craig, chief of the engineer corps of the army, is a measure strongly advocated by leading army officers who have investigated the matter. Southern California should have coast defenses. And San Diego, as a point of strategic importance to an invader, should have ample protection.

With the new electric lighting plant at the Santa Monica Soldiers' Home a coil steam condenser has been put in, by which 50,000 gallons of water daily will be produced from the exhausted steam. The fact that this is 20 per cent. of the daily consumption at the home gives special significance to the figures. The home now has an excellent and adequate water supply.

The brewer who is about to establish a $60,000 brewery in San Diego says that after having the city water analyzed he believes it to be as pure as any city water in the land. As he is a brewer of experience and is conversant with the waters of many places, his testimony is gratifying to Silver Gaters, although some people have been under the impression that it is not the purest water that makes the best beer.

Some house-builders who are not only law-abiding, but are thoughtful of the rights of other human beings, are putting up buildings without obstructing the streets with heaps of mortar, brick and lumber. They do it in a reasonable and proper manner by depositing the building material inside the house, upon the ground floor, whence it is hoisted as needed for the rising walls. This plan is quite feasible, and should be insisted upon by the authorities, as it is just as well for the builders, and a great real better for the public.

Figueras street is becoming so popular as a parade ground for drivers and riders of horses and "peddlers" of bicycles that there has developed a need of a mounted police officer to constantly patrol the thoroughfare. Especially on Sundays is there a need of such an officer, who can compel the drivers and riders of horses and wheels to observe the "rules of the road," of which a large proportion of people seem to be ignorant or disregarding. Very fast driving and riding should also be discouraged on a street that is usually so thronged with people who are out to see and be seen, and are not anxious to become involved in a race, either voluntarily or involuntarily. A police officer properly mounted can compel drivers to "keep to the right, as the law direct," and can also sometimes distinguish himself as a catcher of runaways.

COUNTY FARM.
Party of King's Daughters Spend a Pleasant Day There.
Last Saturday, a party of King's Daughters from Los Angeles, Glendale and Tropic, accompanied by their president, Mrs. Helen A. Birdsell, went for a day's outing to the County Farm, where they were warmly welcomed. After lunch, the ladies adjourned to a reading-room, where an address of welcome was read by Mr. Hughes, who is suffering from paralysis. Mrs. Birdsell responded in a few words of simple earnestness, closing with a prayer for divine blessing, all uniting in the Lord's Prayer at the end. After this impromptu meeting, the carriages and buggies were brought to the door for a drive over the farm, which is in a state of prosperous completeness. The practical and financial part has not been lost sight of, as the sales of oranges, the products from the poultry, dairy and the stock sold, after supplying all the wants of the inmates, runs up into the thousands of dollars. The doctor has a happy faculty of getting the best there is out of both the patients and the soil, and blending the two into a harmonious whole. The grounds and the stock are looked after by the inmates, who take pride each in his own particular work, seeming to enjoy it as pastime more than labor.

Carter Lost His Wardrobe.
A burglar went through Dick Carter's room Saturday night and appropriated all the portable property in sight. The plunder consisted principally of clothing. Carter says he would not feel so badly over his loss if the thief had only left him a clean shirt. The linen Carter had on his back is all he had left and as it was already soiled, Carter could not dress up for Sunday.

UNCLOTHED DEAD.
BURIAL OF BODIES AT EXPENSE OF THE COUNTY.

The Custom Has Hitherto Prevailed of Parading on Grave Clothes. The bodies have been found, but the Practice Has Been Abandoned.

Hereafter the bodies of persons who die at the County Hospital will be decently clothed for burial. The practice which has hitherto prevailed of having such bodies shrouded only in bare wooden coffins when lowered into their graves has been abandoned. The bodies of the dead, which have been found in this manner, had the effect of stopping the custom.

A few years ago Ira Sampson and family came to this part of the country from Maine, and afterward settled not far from Adams street a short distance west of the city. He was afflicted with a wasting disease and after a few years his means became reduced to a low point and he was admitted to the County Hospital. After being a patient in that institution for several months he died on the morning of Friday, November 8.

Where the body of a patient is to be buried at the expense of the county it is customary, following the death, to notify the undertaker having the disposal of such cases for that month. The business is given by the county to one undertaker one month and another the next, and so on. The undertaker is allowed in each case $12 for his services, which include the furnishing of a coffin, and the removal of the body from the County Hospital to the grave in the potter's field adjoining Evergreen cemetery. Out of the $12 he must also pay for the digging of the grave and the filling of it, the price for which is said to be $2.50. It is said to be customary to take the body in each case directly from the County Hospital to the place of burial.

During the present month the business goes to C. D. Howry. In the Sampson case, after the man had died, Mr. Howry was notified as is customary, and it was at first planned to have the burial the same day, death having occurred at an early hour that morning. Some of the neighbors of the Sampson family, however, desired some kind of funeral services at the house. It was also urged that a place be provided for the burial elsewhere than in the potter's field. By a special arrangement Mr. Howry secured a grave at Rosedale cemetery. He also consented to have the carriage containing the body driven to the house and to have it wait there during the services, after which it was to be driven to the grave. The services were held on Saturday.

Accordingly the body was taken from the hospital to Mr. Howry's parlors, where it was kept over night, so that in the morning it could be taken to the funeral and grave.

After the services at the house next day the widow expressed a desire to see the remains. When this request was made, the driver having the body in charge called one or two of the neighbors aside and said to them that the widow must not be permitted to see the body, as it was not in a proper condition.

Accordingly some of the neighbors approached her and suggested that it would be better for her to remember the appearance of her husband as she had seen him in life, than to view his remains at this time. After some urging she was persuaded to withdraw her request.

Some of the neighbors felt impelled to investigate the condition of the corpse, and when an opportunity presented itself, drew the lid so that they could examine it.

The sight is said to have been shocking. The eyes were open, as was the mouth also. The head was in a position which appeared very unnatural. Worst of all, the body was entirely naked. The ghostly appearance was, however, somewhat relieved by a lining of white cloth in the coffin. Such a lining, it is said, undertakers do not usually take the trouble to put in in such cases. The coffin was closed and the body was buried in the grave provided at Rosedale.

The naked condition of the remains was the cause of a good deal of gossip about the matter among the neighbors and they complained to Mr. Howry about it. He explained to them that it was customary to inter county cases in that condition. The matter was also brought to the notice of the Supervisors and of Superintendent Barber of the County Hospital. Four or five days later Mr. Howry had the remains disinterred, and after it was dressed in a decent shroud, the body was again placed in the grave.

The Supervisors, after being informed of the situation, issued instructions that hereafter in no case is the body of a person who dies at the County Hospital to be buried without clothing. If the patient has left no suitable clothing for the body, then a respectable garment is to be obtained at the expense of the county and placed on the remains.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Questionable Methods in Santa Barbara County.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 17.—(To the Editor of The Times.) In the crusade against vice just opening here it was reported that two of our local ministers rented a room, nominally for purposes of prostitution, then had the agent of the building arrested for keeping a disorderly house. So far as I know no paper has contained any denial of this report. The fact seems to stand unchallenged and unnoticed. At first I gave the new Good Citizenship Club my unreserved endorsement, but surely withdraw it if its leaders are to employ such non-Christian and non-ministerial methods. Do they imagine, for one moment, that their divine Master would have used such methods? The discipline is not above his Master, nor the servant above his lord." Yours truly,

JOHN O. COIT.

A Game of Lacrosse in Prospect.

One of the most enjoyable features of last year's field day at the Athletic Park was the match game of lacrosse between the Los Angeles and the Riverside teams. Canada's national game, with its lively movement and exciting scrimmage, "caught on," to use a current phrase, and the game was pronounced not to football in point of interest, by the spectators.

The club directors thought to repeat the game on this year's field day, and accordingly addressed a challenge to the Riverside men for a game, to be played Thanksgiving day. The challenge was accepted but the Riverside team now refuses to play, alleging a number of excuses. They propose, however, to engage in a game Christmas or New Year's day, and it is probable that arrangements will be made for a match on one of these dates. The Los Angeles team now has in its possession the silken pennant presented to the winner of last year's match.

Planning for Christmas-day Sport.

The Berkeley football eleven will in all probability be seen here Christmas day, to play a picked Southern California eleven, at Athletic Park. Secretary McStay of the Athletic Club has written the manager of the Berkeley team about the matter and has received answer that nothing would please the "Berkeleyites" better than to visit Los Angeles Christmas day and prance around the gridiron on the same occasion. Final arrangements for the event will be commenced in a few days.

In addition to the bargains advertised in yesterday's paper we add a good list of others and would advise early callers for the following that were advertised, as the supply is limited: Comb and brush sets for 39c, 50c and 75c. The single brushes for 35c, 40c and 50c. The remnants for comfort and quilt linings for 5c a yard.

If you appreciate a good thing for very little money buy the dollar white quilts, extra heavy, extra large, worth and sold everywhere for $2, here today $1.

There will be a great sale of all the cloaks in the house. We are intending to make great alterations in the Cloak Department in the spring; for this reason we will close out every garment at a big reduction from the regular price. Get your Sunday paper and read the reductions carefully.

We are not going out of the cloak business; we are selling out the cloak stock to make extensive improvements; we advertise facts; it is a fact that big reductions are now being made in the cloak room. Bright plaids in the dress goods department. Buy them; they are the scarcest articles in the dry goods line; 20c for cotton plaids, 50c, 65c and $1 for all-wool plaids. The button craze runs an even gait with plaid dress goods. We have an extra large line of new medium-priced buttons in all sizes.

Christmas is coming. Buy your Christmas handkerchiefs now; 6 fine Swiss embroidered loop edge handkerchiefs for $1. Later the price will be 4 for $1.

Ladies' Jersey ribbed vests, 25c, 33c and 50c. Much better than regular lines for the same money.

Today we will sell a small lot of extra fine figured black mohairs for 50c a yard; one pattern only to a customer; no samples given; your money back if you want it. Choice styles and a big seller every day for 75c, one day only, 50c a yard; one of the best bargains of the season in the dress goods line.

NOT PROVEN GUILTY.
Durrant's Grandfather Talks About the Jury's Verdict.

Although the verdict of the jury in the Blanche Lamont case has ceased to be a topic of general conversation, there is one man in Los Angeles who is almost continually pilled with questions concerning his opinion of it. That man is Thomas Durrant, grandfather of Theodore Durrant, the convicted murderer.

"Yes, I am bothered a great deal by curious-minded folks, who want to know how I like the verdict, and whether I think my grandson is guilty," said the old man, as he hammered away at his work in his little cobbler shop at No. 214 West Fourth street.

"One thing is certain: they haven't proved him guilty yet. The newspapers and public opinion convicted him. The jury had their mind made up before the case was submitted. I admit that circumstantial evidence against him is strong, but I do not believe him guilty. A good deal of the testimony was untrue, and I am sure of it. Many an innocent man has been hanged on circumstantial evidence, and it may hang Theodore, but I believe there yet is hope for him."

"Of course, if he really is guilty and is proved so beyond doubt, why, I say hang him. That is what the culprit deserves, whoever he is, but I do not believe in hanging a man before every doubt as to his guilt is removed."

"Just after the conclusion of the trial, one man came into my shop and said: 'They ought to take Durrant out and lynch him, don't you think so?' I looked him in the eye and said, 'No, I don't.' Then he wanted to know the reason why, but I refused to discuss the matter with him. He did not know that he was talking to the alleged murderer's grandfather."

"Poor boy! He has spent one birthday in jail and it is a good chance to spend another one there. It is a remarkable case and a sad one. The ordeal is a terrible one for his sister and parents. The child is in Germany completing her musical education, so of course, she is not harassed so much by the unpleasant notoriety the family has received through the tragedy. I have not heard from Theodore directly since his trouble began, but my son and wife write to me occasionally. It is costing my son all he has to defend Theodore, but he believes him innocent and does not begrudge the money."

"Such, in substance, were the remarks of Grandfather Durrant as he mended a shoe for a Times reporter, while he waited. The aged cobbler is not bowed down in the least by the family troubles. His three score years and ten rest lightly upon him, and he works cheerfully at his bench from morn till night. He is a remarkable man in many respects; being endowed with great mental, as well as great bodily, vigor. Although over 70 years old, he does not appear to be a day over 50, and he says he confidently expects to be a centenarian."

Mr. Durrant says he expects to celebrate his seventy-fifth year by visiting from Los Angeles to his old home at Toronto, Can. He lives at No. 2118 Maple avenue and walks daily to and from his work, a distance of about two miles, never thinking of riding on a street car. Despite his years, he has been figuring on getting a bicycle.

Mr. Durrant is a native of England, but has lived in Canada and the United States the greater part of his life.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

A special dispatch from San Diego received last evening, says: Late this afternoon a young man and a woman entered the office of the Hotel Florence. The young man was very nervous as he registered "Mr. and Mrs. H. Paul Martin, Los Angeles." It soon developed that the young couple were the people who, on last Thursday afternoon were quietly married by the Rev. Dr. A. G. L. Trew, at the Church of the Epiphany in East Los Angeles, and fled away to parts unknown. Since that time the bride's parents have been in a state of uncertainty as to the whereabouts of their daughter. The adventurous couple are supposed to have made their way to Lakeside, in this county, where there is a comfortable hotel and a lake full of ducks. It was at first supposed that Mr. and Mrs. Martin had gone East, but their presence in San Diego county will set at rest all question as to their whereabouts. They are comfortably settled at the Florence in the bridal chamber. The bride's parents objected to the union, so it is reported, because of their desire that their daughter should wed an Eastern suitor. Mr. Martin's parents approved the match. It was therefore consummated secretly. The happy couple are the dinner guests to-night of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Baker.

LOVES HER EBENEZER.

He Stabbed Her, but She Will Not Prosecute Him.

Ebenezer Melville, a plumber, living at No. 853 South Broadway, was arrested yesterday evening for assaulting his wife with a deadly weapon. Mrs. Melville alleges that he wanted to go out to see another woman with whom he has been consorting. The wife objected and tried to stop him, as he was about to leave the house. This made Melville very angry, and, drawing a murderous-looking hunting-knife, he made a lunge at her with the weapon. It penetrated the right hand, causing an ugly gash and causing the blood to flow freely. Mrs. Melville screamed and a neighbor went to the Ninth-street engine-house and telephoned for a policeman.

Melville and wife were both taken to the police station, where he was locked up for assault with a deadly weapon. Mrs. Melville's wound was dressed in the Receiving Hospital, after which she was sent home.

Melville admits the assault, but his wife refuses to prosecute him, because she loves her Ebenezer even if he does neglect her for other women. Officer Richardson says he will file a complaint against Melville, if his wife fails to do so.

The knife with which Melville did the cutting is smeared with blood. It is a new one and has a keen blade about five inches long, the point of which is daubed with blood.
